CoinBull Management gives possibility of a convenient inter-exchange crypto trade with lowest commission. You do not have to hire programmers to write bots for automatic trading, or constantly look out 24/7 for trading opportunities. We will be the one to handle the trades in an automated mode, as exchanges differ in design and functionality, which sometimes makes it difficult to create quick orders.

SIMULTANEOUS TRADING
ARBITRAGE TRADING

Arbitraging is a common strategy used in trading. In the Cryptocurrency market, there are many inefficiencies due to poor or lack of regulatory framework, market supply and demand, lack of support from banking systems and barrier of entry for new exchanges.

There are a lot of price differences happening across exchanges and coin pairings. CoinBull aims to build a network of resources by utilizing the crowd to benefit from these arbitrage opportunities.

COINBULL

Another largely used intraday strategy in trading, Scalping typically makes lesser profits per trade but by executing a vast number of small trades, it will still add up to a substantial profit. This strategy is largely based on technical analysis, but more importantly, a robust algorithm that can consistently and swiftly execute accurate trades within a short timeframe to profit from the small price changes.

With usage of low latency and high frequency connection setup, we are able to execute up to 10 trades per milliseconds

FUTURE

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

WHAT NEXT?

In this evergreen cryptocurrency market, our data scientists and researchers are constantly reviewing and identifying market inefficiencies and new strategies that can help improve our trading performance.

We also hope to incorporate Artificial Intelligence (AI) into our system. At this stage, we are collecting trade data from all different exchanges under different environment. With this big data, we hope to increase the better ways to get unconventional opportunities.

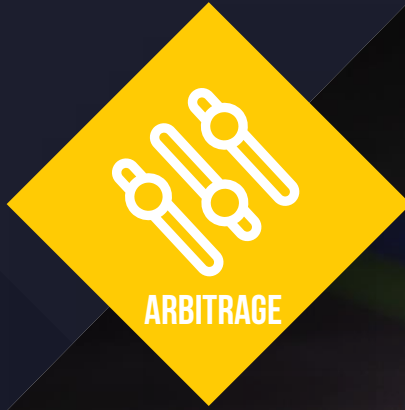

Our target is to gather more like minded members through our CoinBull Management Systems to form a community of investors. As we grow, we will move to other asset classes and financial instruments so that we can scale, hedge and diversify into other fast moving mainstream opportunities.
